"Don't get so busy making a living that you forget to make a life"- Dolly Parton. Many of us need to be reminded of this this time of year. With kids being back to school with several activities and constantly on the run, fall preconditioning, crop harvest, weaning, moving hay, and fall calving for some we can get really busy making a living and may forget to keep making a life. I recently heard that on average a family spends 37 minutes of quality time together each day! Now let that sink in. Are you average? I know it made me stop and think about what choices I am making each day with my family, my job, and how I utilize my time. During really busy times we have to be creative and challenge ourselves to not forget to keep making a life.

As the dust has settled and I have been able to regroup a little bit from the whirlwind of Nebraska Angus Association events that took place in August and September I am happy to say that each event went very well. To start off was the Nebraska State Fair in Grand Island. This year entry numbers were low for Angus with 24, but the quality that showed was top notch. Following the state fair was Husker Harvest Days in Grand Island. Displaying at Husker Harvest Days were breeders, C1 Cattle, Dethlefs Angus Ranch, Hollman Angus, and Schulte Angus for a total of five pens. These pens included two pens of young bulls, one older bull, a pen of three heifers, and a cow calf pair. There was a lot of traffic through the tent this year and the weather was phenomenal! A day after Husker Harvest Days the annual Nebraska Angus Tour took place in the Kearney area. The participation this year was one of the largest ones with more attendees going to every stop. During the tour, attendees got to enjoy socialization with other breeders and sponsors, eat outstanding beef, view cattle from Gardels Lazy Four Angus, Schulte Angus, Key Ranch, Bartels Angus, and TC Ranch. Special interest during the tour included a presentation by Dr. Mark Boggess- Director of US Meat Animal Research in Clay Center, a tour of Wood River Dairy near Miller, and a viewing of the east lot at Phelps County Feeders with talk about their feedlot and business Nebraska Star Beef near Bertrand. Over 100 people attended this year's tour. At the final stop door prize drawings and the annual heifer raffle drawing took place. Congratulations to Kelsey Evans of Bertrand for winning this year's heifer!

Coming up for events this year will be the National Angus Convention in Orlando, Florida in November, and our annual meeting and banquet and royalty contest in Kearney in December. I encourage everyone to make plans this year for our annual meeting and banquet. This event provides great networking and education for Angus producers. At this event we have a meeting that provides information on what the Nebraska Angus Association has been working on and the future goals for the association. The board of directors and myself hope you can attend this year to help provide feedback to assure that the association keeps moving forward in the right direction.

With that I hope everyone has an amazing fall and holiday season!

PRESIDENT SPEAKS

By: Joe Epperly, NAA President

Hello Fellow Angus Enthusiasts,

As I write this, I'm looking at a sale report with 600 lbs. bawling steers in our area bringing north of $3.00/lb. Steers going the door of our feedlot grossing $3,000/hd. The long-range weather looks to be returning to a favorable moisture pattern for the state of Nebraska. While that might mean some snow this fall, the future is bright for those of us that own the beef factory.

It is a great time to be in the cattle business and I believe that it is an even better time to improve and invest in genetics. As you go through this newsletter or scroll through the events page on our website, you'll see that there are as many high-quality Angus cows for sale in and around the Cornhusker state as there has been in the last 10 years. I cannot think of a more advantageous time to trade in poor producing cows for high quality genetics that I think will only be more expensive and valuable over the next 3-4 years. In 2014, there was a great run on cows and bred heifers the last time calves got this high. Now the cow herd is even smaller, and rebuilding has hardly begun based on feedlot placements.

Looking to spring, if you have the opportunity keep and breed heifers start making the plan now. Investing in a high-quality herd bull that you can collect and breed those heifers to is always a good investment and bred heifers look to be worth even more in 2024 / 2025.

I apologize for my attempt to be Randy Blach at CattleFax but I am excited about where we are in the cattle business and where we are headed. Nebraska Angus members are leaders in top quality Angus genetics, and I look forward to seeing you all capitalize on this long-awaited top side of the cattle cycle.

As coming up is the American Angus Association Annual Meeting and Convention in Orlando, FL the first weekend in November. If you have wanted to take the kids to Disneyland, here is the opportunity to go and get to fellowship with Angus breeders and learn the latest in goings on at the American Angus Association. We also hope to see you in Kearney on December 2nd for our Annual Meeting and Banquet.

May God Bless you all and I hope to see you this fall,

KIM MARCY -
Kimberly Ann
Horacek -

Marcy was born on August 27, 1956 in Omaha, NE to Ruth and Al Horacek. She was their only child and they had many adventures as a terrific trio. Growing up, Kim was involved in the pom pom squad, girl scouts, and spending times with her cousins who were like her brothers and sisters. Kim was always a hard worker, working in both junior high and high school, even getting herself back and forth from school to work to home. Kim was an alumna of Omaha Central High School and furthered her education at the University of Nebraska at Lincoln. She valued learning and was committed to personal growth throughout her life serving as a board member for grade schools, preschools, and later Western Nebraska Community College.

Kim married Tom Marcy on March 8, 1980 in Omaha, NE. Wedded bliss took the newlyweds to Firth, NE to their first home, then not long after, back to the ranch south of Hay Springs. Most anniversaries throughout their years were spent in the calving barn.

Although Kim grew up in the city, living in the country and caring for animals was a natural fit for her. Her background and work ethic as a city girl made her a perfect fit for what was to come. Despite her city upbringing, she took on the work of raising cattle and bulls quickly. Raising a family, driving a silage truck, calving cows, keeping the place clean, and filling in where needed on the farm and ranch. Her love of animals was nothing but beautiful. She also had many dogs and cats throughout her life, each one just as special as the last. Even Lucy – aka “The Queen”.

To this wonderful union, Tom and Kim had two sons – Benjamin Jay, born May 7, 1983 and Bradley Charles, born January 2, 1985. She was known as Michael Jordan Mom – the absolute greatest of all time. Brad and Ben were her world for the rest of her time on earth. As they both grew up, Kim and Tom were their biggest supporters. As the boys ventured into adulthood, mom was still one of their closest friends, providing daily guidance, sharing funny memes and videos.

Kim welcomed the boys’ wives, Stephanie and Taryn, as her daughters. When the grandkids, Logan, Brogan, Liam and Bryce came along, she was happiest just being in their presence and they in hers. Cooking, play dough and rides to the dump with grandma were tops.

Kim loved to travel. She and Tom went on many adventures together. Family trips to Mexico and Colorado were favorites. She made sure to take care of everyone, in the most unassuming way.

Kim is survived by her husband Tom; son Ben and his wife Stephanie, their boys Logan and Liam; son Brad and his wife Taryn, their girls Brogan and Bryce; Tom’s best friend Hooch; grandpups Layla, Spud, Flynn and Walter; and many cousins and friends.

Kim was admired by many but opened up to a few. She was genuine with her feelings and kind to anyone. She had a caring and selfless nature, always ensuring that others felt welcomed, valued, and heard. Her wry sense of humor and wit will be so missed. She was soft spoken but a go-getter. She got things done, quietly, perfectly and without much ado. She always had a plan and executed it without a fuss.

The loss of our wife, mother, grandmother and friend has been incredibly deep but we are so thankful for the love, laughter and memories we have had with her. We are truly grateful for the outpouring of love and support from family and friends which reflects just how many lives she impacted. She will be greatly missed by all whose lives she touched.

NE AUXILIARY PRESIDENT SPEAKS

By: Laurie Dethlefs, NE Angus Aux President

Greetings Angus Family,

What an adventure we've had these past few months! The State Fair brought us to greet exhibitors with cookies and water assisted by our queen and princess. Husker Harvest days found us venturing up and down the streets finally ending up in the Angus tent to greet patrons sharing our passion for this awesome breed. The Angus tour took us across the central part of the state bringing a variety of cattle enthusiasts sharing knowledge of every aspect of the cattle industry. Oh and did I mention that I was trusted to drive one of the vans on the tour! I really enjoyed all the passengers and learned a lot from them.

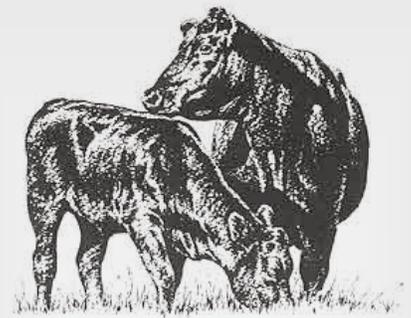

As we look ahead to the next few months, we are busy preparing for our winter meeting held in conjunction with the adult meeting and banquet where we will also hold our auxiliary fundraiser—the Silent Auction. We are accepting donations for this auction looking for unique items for all ages. If you have any items to donate or suggestions, please share with a board member.

Our next meeting will be held at Diva's at Kearney Floral on December 2nd at 2:30pm. During this meeting we will be holding officer elections, so please consider sharing your talents by becoming an officer. We will also be learning how to create a table top arrangement for the holiday season with instructor Stacey Schulte. If you will be joining us and want to participate, please let me know by November 15th to reserve your materials. There will be a small fee for this activity.

Many blessings to you and your families this holiday season and I am looking forward to seeing you in Kearney this December!

Meet the Speaker

WILL HARSH

American Angus State Representative. His topic will be on AAA Login and Portal Help.

Harsh is a third generation Angus breeder from Ohio, grew up in the National Jr Angus Program, and competed heavily in local state and national contests. This led to ultimately working for the American Angus Association that gave him so much as a kid. Graduated from Oklahoma State University in 2018 and began managing the Oklahoma State Purebred Beef Range. Will began working for American Angus as the Southeastern Regional Manager covering AL, AR, LA & MS for the last 3.5 years and then transitioned into the Nebraska & Colorado territory in the summer of 2023.

Hello Angus Family!

Happy Fall Y'all! I hope this finds you having had a safe and happy harvest and an easy transition to weaning and moving cows to stalks. It is hard to believe I have a few months of college under my belt, and I am happy to say that it is going well. Just like everything in life, I've had to overcome a couple obstacles and find my way in a new situation. I am happy to report that I'm loving all the new experiences that I've been presented with.

Since my last article, the juniors have been busy showing at the Nebraska State Fair and Aksarben. It is always fun to see our Angus family at other events and what I like best is that everyone looks out for each other and lends a hand when needed. Congratulations to all who exhibited! The junior members had impressive weekends representing the breed we love. Good luck as you prepare for winter shows.

NeJAA did not hold a state fair meeting, as it's just difficult to find a good time with FFA and 4-H being different weekends. Instead we are reaching out to NeJAA members by email with opportunities to volunteer for show committees for our Winter Show that is fast approaching. We need all juniors to step up to the plate and help out. Our Annual Winter Show will be held in Kearney at the Buffalo County Fairgrounds on December 3rd at 9:00 am. Entries are due by November 25th. Watch your email and our Facebook page for details. We will hold a junior association meeting on Saturday, December 2nd at 2:00 pm at the Buffalo County Fairgrounds.

Also held that weekend will be our annual Semen Auction & Queen Crowning at the Nebraska Angus Adult Association's banquet on Saturday, December 2nd at the Holiday Inn at 7:00 pm. The Semen Auction is NeJAA's largest fundraiser, which funds our state show and junior association events. Also during the semen auction, we sell a premium spot on the back of our state t-shirt for the national angus show in July. Be on the lookout for details about the semen auction. If you have questions or want to donate to the semen auction, please let me know. My phone number is 308-778-6234. Or email me at addisoncotton0@gmail.com. A NeJAA member will be contacting those that have donated to the auction in the past. Thank you for your continued support.

I hope you can all join us in December. I am looking forward to seeing all of you for a great weekend with our Angus Family!

Sincerely yours,

Addison Cotton

AM I FULL OF CRAP?

Calf scours are not inevitable. A strong prevention program is non-negotiable. Dependable scour prevention is essential for calf welfare, employee morale and business profitability. The immune system's response to vaccination is variable and unpredictable. That's why giving preformed antibodies instead of relying on a vaccine to stimulate antibody production is so important. I'm all for removing uncertainties. So yes, I stand by this product. (And no, I'm not.)

2023 ANGUS TOUR Recap

The Nebraska Angus Association hosted the 2023 Nebraska Angus Tour on September 15th and 16th in the south-central area with Kearney being the headquarters. Angus enthusiasts were able to enjoy ranch tours, several cattle displays, great food, door prizes, special interest stops, and speakers.

The tour kicked off Friday afternoon with special activities including a floral shop tour at Divas at Kearney Floral and assembling a fall arrangement with shopping, and for others a round of golf at Kearney Country Club. That evening the tour moved to Buffalo County Fairgrounds in Kearney for registration, social hour, a Certified Angus Beef meal, and presentation by Dr. Mark Boggess director of US Meat and Animal Research in Clay Center, Nebraska. On Saturday, the tour started back out at the fairgrounds with breakfast provided by Farm Credit Services. Attendees were able to check out cattle on display from Schulte Angus Ranch and Gardels Lazy Four Angus and visit with various sponsors. Mid-morning the tour continued to the Key Ranch in Miller to see their heifer development facility and cattle on display. At this stop tour goers took turns going to Wood River Dairy nearby for a tour of their dairy facility. After lunch at the Key Ranch the tour moved to Phelps County Feeders/Nebraska Star Beef near Bertrand. Here tour participants were able to learn about Phelps County Feeders and how they supply all their own beef for their business Nebraska Star Beef. From there the tour moved to the final stop at TC Ranch. At this stop cattle displays were provided by Bartels Angus and TC Ranch. The evening wrapped up with a steak dinner, sponsor presentations, multiple door prize drawings, and the heifer raffle drawing.

The Nebraska Angus Association thanks all the producers who participated, everyone who attended the tour or helped, and all those who sponsored this great event this year. Check us out next year for the Nebraska Angus Tour scheduled to be held in southeast Nebraska!

Talon Youth Education Learning Program interns and host ranches complete summer experiences

By Peyton Schmitt, Angus Communications

The Angus Foundation congratulates the students who expanded their horizons this summer as Angus/Talon Youth Education Learning Program interns. The interns joined five Angus host ranches throughout the United States for an immersive learning experience in the cattle industry. The Talon Youth Education Learning Program internship is the legacy of the late Camron "Cam" Cooper of The Talon Ranch, Twin Bridges, Montana. Cooper set up the Angus/Talon Youth Education Learning Program Endowment Fund in 2009 to be a holistic educational opportunity for students.

"We had an excellent group of interns for the summer," said Jaelyn Boester, Angus Foundation executive director. "We enjoyed watching the growth our interns achieved while working and learning alongside their hosts."

The five individuals hailed from a variety of regions and backgrounds. Talon interns "learn by doing" through hands-on experiences provided by their host ranches.

"By participating in the Talon Internship, I enhanced my networking skills along with technical skills that I couldn't have learned in a classroom," said Garrett Ulmer, 2023 Talon intern.

KACEY DETHLEFS, Ravenna, Nebraska, interned with Blueprint Genetics/Henning Farms, Janesville, Wisconsin. Dethlefs studies animal science at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. She grew up as a fourth-generation Angus breeder on her family's operation, Dethlefs Angus Ranch, and has been involved in the Nebraska Junior Angus Association and National Junior Angus Association. Dethlefs plans to pursue a career in beef reproduction while staying involved in her family's ranch.

Blueprint Genetics/Henning Farms provided Dethlefs a unique combination of experiences. Henning Farms is a family-run program focused on providing high-quality Angus cattle. In addition to annually marketing heifers, the farm has an embryo-intensive program through work with Blueprint Genetics. As an intern, Dethlefs spent time assisting with both operational duties at Henning Farms and at the Blueprint Genetics IVF collection facility.

Benoit Angus Ranch honored with CAB Seedstock Commitment to Excellence Award

By Lindsay Graber Runft

Fresh out of the Army with an eye for the right kind of cattle, Everett Benoit bought six Angus heifers from his neighbor and started a cow herd of his own. He and wife Bonnie settled down in north-central Kansas to build a farm and family. The only kind of work they knew was hard work, and plenty of it.

Their resolve and work ethic saw the herd grow to 400 Angus females, along with a 2,500-acre farming division now.

Benoit Angus Ranch, marketing over 150 bulls annually, is a multi-generation family business with sons Doug and Chad. Focused on serving commercial cattlemen, the Benois built a reputation for high-quality cattle that perform on the ranch, in the feedyard and on the rail.

With always-improving cattle to support that renown, and the will to back it up, Benoit Angus Ranch earned the Certified Angus Beef (CAB) 2023 Seedstock Commitment to Excellence Award. The family was recognized at the CAB Annual Conference in Las Vegas, Nevada, in September.

Family, Farm and Love for the Angus Female. While Doug manages the cow herd, Chad oversees the farming side. Where possible, that ties back to cattle as row crops, cover and forages diversify beyond managing 3,500 acres of grass. Cows graze corn stalks till late in the year and cover crops on wheat ground extend light grazing through the winter.

Everett and Bonnie remain involved, often sitting down with their sons to provide input and advice.

"They started this and now we all work together," Doug says. "Dad has been a great teacher for us. And, it's very nice to be able to work with your folks."

Passing his work ethic, love for the breed and the core foundation of the family Angus herd on down to sons meant they grew up with Angus as the only logical choice.

The Benois have been recognized for their emphasis on maternal traits and overall high-quality Angus genetics that meet commercial cattlemen's needs.

Customer-Focused Cattlemen.

Any reputation is earned. In the cattle business it can be cultivated in many ways, but it hangs on customer opinion.

"We measure success by our customers," Doug says. "We work for them, and we'll do everything we can to keep them satisfied."

With two annual production sales, females in the fall and bulls in the spring, the Benois rely on a strong customer base, largely repeat buyers and upwards of 85 percent commercial.

Each year's breeding decisions aim to improve the herd, partly by targeting high-quality beef production. With a bull customer base largely aiming for a premium on calves produced, the Benois employ CAB's "Targeting the Brand™" logo in their sale catalogs. In 2023, 76 percent of their bull sale offering earned the logo.

"We put that Targeting the Brand mark in our sale catalog, and I know a number of customers will buy off that," Doug says. "And they will mark out bulls from their selection if it doesn't have the Targeting the Brand logo."

At the first of two rounds of culling, the ranch pulls the bottom 25 percent of bulls based on quality, and sends them to a Nebraska feedyard as steers. That bottom end, in a sense, still contributes carcass data as a baseline for how different genetics perform.

With an average CAB acceptance rate of nearly 65 percent along with those grading Prime, the Benois have found what works.

Putting in the Work

"As long as it's got a seat on it, I can usually do a pretty good job," Everett says.

Now in his mid-80s, he wakes before sunrise and climbs into his truck for another day of work on the farm. Whether he's feeding cows or swathing hay, he enjoys what he does from the seat. Bonnie still can't plan on him for dinnertime, but they've managed to get along so far.

"If you love doing something, it's not work," Everett says. "That's the way I taught my boys—and hard work, it pays off."

For the Benois, that's the goal: Add quality to the cow herd and improve the quality of a steak.

With another generation (or two) following in his footsteps, and the success of the ranch to carry forward, one thing's for certain: hard work is a learned lifestyle at Benoit Angus Ranch.

Dear Nebraska Angus Association,

I wish to express my gratitude for being selected as the recipient of your scholarship. This scholarship will help me pursue my future goals of becoming a labor and delivery nurse and increasing my knowledge about animal science to progress my Angus herd. This scholarship is a much-appreciated gift and an investment in my future. Again, thank you very much for your generosity and for constantly pushing me to be my best. With your help, I am determined to work hard and make my dreams come true.

Sincerely,
Addison Cotton, York

Dear Nebraska Angus Association Leadership and Members,

Thank you so much for your $500 donation for the junior association to use at junior nationals. We used this money to provide Runza's at the tailgate and buy hamburgers for the junior meal on Monday night.

Thanks again,
Nebraska Junior Angus members

Breed Leading Performance Cattle

Nebraska Ranch Receives Certified Angus Beef Commercial Award

By Morgan Boecker

Some progress can be seen. Replacing old barns with new ones, buying a hydraulic chute, or those first calves after investing in genetics. Other progress is invisible because it happens inside, in the way you think.

Both are a necessity on the Guide Rock, Nebraska, ranch where Troy Anderson manages a commercial Angus herd and small grower yard.

His focus is clear: maternal cows that thrive in this environment, big calves that will grade premium Choice and Prime. But his approach includes respect for his livestock, people and land. For all that and more, Anderson Cattle was honored with the Certified Angus Beef (CAB) 2023 Commercial Commitment to Excellence Award. Troy, son Zane and parents Roy and Rosemary received the award in September at the CAB Annual Conference in Las Vegas.

When Roy first moved to Nebraska in 1963, he found rundown fences, eroded farm ground and a dream that transformed it with terraces, trees and new fences.

The days were long and the work physically exhausting. Roy and Rosemary balanced raising a family and farming wheat, milo and silage while gradually growing their herd.

"There's always been the desire to raise good cattle and do a good job with the cattle we have," Troy says.

Over the years, they continued to seek better genetics. Troy looks for Targeting the Brand™ logos in bull sale catalogs.

"Targeting the Brand tells me a bull has the genetics to produce a higher percentage of calves that qualify for CAB," Troy says. That's his target, too.

It just made sense to build a yard to grow and finish calves at the ranch. Since 2015, Troy has fed and finished home-raised, purchased or customer cattle in his 850-head feedyard. All are marketed on a quality-based grid.

As soon as he gets the carcass data back, he's matching sires to individual progeny carcass values to see if the bulls will be used again next breeding season. Data and technology open doors to improvement.

"We're bottom-line driven," Troy notes. "If we can get an extra $6 per hundredweight, that's $50 to $60 a head. That can be the difference between making money or not on a set of calves, especially with the things we've gone through the last few years in the cattle industry."

In May 2023, Anderson's calves hit 88 percent Choice and Prime with 44 percent CAB. The few Select grades usually trace back to some problem in a calf's life, Troy says.

"Harvesting more CAB qualifiers not only gives us more profit, but it helps consumers feel better about beef," he says. "It also makes me feel better about our cattle, knowing that we're producing beef that people want and enjoy."

And consumers can feel better because the cattle raised according to Beef Quality Assurance guidelines relate not only to product in the grocery meat case but to the entire herd.

That extends to Troy taking care of his land in an environment that tests him often.

"We put in miles and miles of cross fence and several miles of waterlines to tanks," he says of his fencing career after moving home in 2001.

The new system distributed the cows' grazing, resulting in better grass. It makes life a lot easier for herd and pasture, especially during a drought, he adds. Cows will graze more areas of the pasture when they have access to fresh water.

They AI'd 100 heifers and 150 cows last spring, a herd that's dwindled in the face of too many consecutive dry years.

Waterlines run across 600 to 1,000 feet of surface to get water to cows lucky enough to be on grass. Others were fed longer and dry-lotted well into summer.

"It's a testament to Angus cows and careful management," Troy says. "We've pushed them for efficiency but upped our mineral program to make up for the differences."

Even though the days are long, memories of progress bring a smile. It isn't easy passing the reins to the next generation, but Troy says his parents have been accommodating to let him make decisions and learn from them.

Cattle may determine what's on today's to-do list, but people are the heart of the operation.

It takes the same firm yet gentle hand to be a stockman and a dad. Lessons Troy learned the hard way guide him as a father today when he has Zane in tow.

"I like to help sort cattle because you can learn a lot about them," Zane says. "Dad taught me to be calm around livestock because they can sense you. So, if you're angry or happy, they can sense that."

"To have Zane out there wanting to learn, it means the world to me thinking I'm raising someone who may help move the industry forward," Troy says.

Everything they accomplish, they accomplish as a family.

"We have lived here 50-some years now," Roy says, "and we've got everything situated about the way we want it."

Still, the next 10 years will only build on successes as they give everything they have to get better.
